

On this Thanksgiving, I ask that we reflect on what a blessing this year has been for us and how grateful we are to live in such a vibrant and beautiful city. We live in a city that cares about its community and works together to reach common goals. I can't be more proud to be the Mayor of Frankfort and to represent our community where residents can live, work, and thrive.

I am thankful for so many things, but I wouldn't be here today without our amazing city employees. They work day in and out to provide our community and residents' to prompt service and make sure our city keeps moving forward. I am thankful for our Board of Public Works, and City Council members who work countless hours to see Frankfort grow and to provide resources to our community.

I am thankful for our first responders who are working today and are away from their families this Thanksgiving. We have so many caring individuals who sacrifices their time to make sure our community remains safe.

I am thankful for our community, and businesses. You are what makes up Frankfort. We are so blessed to have business owners that want to invest in Frankfort and call Frankfort their home. Your passion fuels my passion and is one of the reasons why I work so hard to continue making Frankfort a strong and diverse community.

I am thankful for the brave men and women of our armed forces. I pray not only today but every day that they feel our love from wherever they are stationed. We have so many amazing service men and women in our community that will be missed this Thanksgiving.

As you gather with your family and friends this Thanksgiving, I ask that you think about your blessings and what you are thankful for this year. It could be something simple or your list could go on and on. I hope you cherish these moments and make memories today. Happy Thanksgiving.

God Bless
Mayor Judy Sheets
